Over the past few months, we hosted a series of practical workshops under the theme “Crafting Your Career Narrative” with College of Liberal Arts (CLA). These sessions attracted enthusiastic participation from students across various departments and even a few faculty members. Here are some highlights from the events:

2024/09/16 Self-Introduction □

Ever struggled to introduce yourself during an interview? This workshop tackled that challenge head-on! Participants learned how to craft compelling self-introductions using foundational techniques and advanced structures. By the end, everyone left with boosted confidence and memorable narratives to present themselves effectively.

2024/09/23 CV & Resume □

What’s the difference between a CV and a resume? How can you showcase your strengths effectively? Guided by our speaker Antony, participants explored the nuances of writing professional documents, from format to content. The session featured lively discussions and peer reviews, helping everyone refine their work and gain new insights.

2024/09/30 Cover Letter

A great cover letter can make all the difference when applying for a job. Antony returned to guide participants through the art of writing persuasive cover letters. He explained the differences between a resume and a cover letter, emphasizing how the latter should highlight personal strengths and relevant qualifications. Participants had ample time to practice writing and benefited from peer reviews, which allowed them to exchange feedback and gain fresh perspectives.

2024/10/07 Research Information Management System □

Looking to expand your academic network or share your research with a wider audience? Sylvania, an expert from the school library, introduced two essential platforms:

ORCID: Create a professional academic profile, connect with databases, and showcase your research effortlessly.

ResearchGate: Beyond downloading papers, this platform offers networking opportunities and even job postings.
